

Be Ready for Your Next Audit

ISO Transition Deadline is
September 15, 2018

ISO 9001:2008 and ISO 14001:2004 certificates expire on September 15, 2018.

Organizations that have not transitioned to ISO 9001:2015 and/or ISO 14001:2015 must implement all new requirements before their next audit.

The audit process can take several months.

Audit → Audit Review → Audit Decision = 4 months or more

In order to help your organization transition, API has already assigned your next audit. We highly recommend that you work with your assigned auditor to hold the audit as soon as possible.

After APIQR has verified that your organization has successfully transitioned to the 2015 versions of ISO 9001/14001, your ISO certificate will be reissued. Your expiration date will be realigned to be consistent with the start date of the current certification cycle.

If you have additional questions or need further information, please contact certification@api.org.

This notification is posted to the API website under Program & Spec Updates.