

Oil and Natural Gas Stimulate Wyoming

Economic and Job Growth

Oil and natural gas are driving the U.S. economy through a major energy boom and that boom is rippling through the economy of Wyoming, supporting business activity across the state. This finding grows out of a new American Petroleum Institute survey of domestic oil and natural gas vendors,¹ which offers a glimpse into the job and business creation engine that is the current oil and natural gas industry. The survey shows that at least 1,081 businesses, spread across Wyoming's single at-large congressional district, are part of the larger oil and natural gas supply chain.

The survey's snapshot of state-by-state activity reinforces the impressive level of industry success throughout the country that is documented in a recent PriceWaterhouseCoopers study conducted for the American Petroleum Institute.² The study found that the oil and natural gas industry in Wyoming supports some 80,000 jobs, which is 20.4 percent of the state's total employment. The amount of Wyoming labor income supported by the oil and natural gas industry comes to $5.13 billion annually. That's 21.3 percent of the state's total labor income.

Another way in which the oil and gas industry benefits the people of Wyoming, in addition to total employment and labor income, is in terms of salary.³ While the average annual salary in Wyoming across all industries and sectors is $44,699, the average salary in the oil and gas industry (excluding gas stations) is very significantly higher—$84,994 annually.³ Overall the industry supports $13 billion of the Wyoming economy. That's nearly 33 percent of the state's total economic activity.

Wyoming ranks 7th in oil and 5th in natural gas production. That makes it one of the nation's top energy-producing states.

Wyoming particularly benefits from the production of oil and natural gas from shales and so-called "tight formations," energy development that uses the proven engineering technologies of hydraulic

The survey was distributed to API members in January 2014 to collect information for the period October 2012 to September 2013. Included are companies that provide goods and services for onshore oil and natural gas development, whether as operators, contractors, service companies, suppliers, or vendors.

Big Horn Environmental Consultants

Big Horn Environmental Consultants (BHEC) works with all the energy development stakeholders, including private landowners, companies, and land managers, in developing infrastructure plans that maintain compliance with existing federal and state wildlife regulations and encourage persistence of sensitive species, for example, the greater sage-grouse and raptors. Company planning helps to conserve important habitats, while achieving economically viable resource extraction, such as coal bed, natural gas, deep oil wells, and mining of minerals.

Information collected during wildlife surveys provides key information to help land managers determine the best siting for infrastructure used by projects. Mapping of sensitive species' nest locations and important seasonal habitats results in survey information that can also be useful for early-stage planning of potential lease holds. In addition, company data help identify additional costs and clarify the complexity of permitting for new projects.

Company clients have benefited from survey information to become informed about locations that have sensitive wildlife issues, thereby avoiding costly delays while developing siting and construction plans. Big Horn has found that "The oil and gas industry people involved in permitting and developing locations genuinely strive to have the least possible impact on wildlife and other resources."

In addition, Big Horn's support of the oil and gas industry provides income for seasonal employees every spring and summer, when the majority of the wildlife survey work occurs.

fracturing, or "fracking," and horizontal drilling. Total jobs supported by these activities in Wyoming reached 17,834 in 2012. That job total is projected to climb to 26,639 in 2020 and to 34,459 in 2035.⁵

And Americans, including the people of Wyoming, get it. A telephone poll of 1,012

registered voters across the country, conducted on behalf of the American Petroleum Institute, found that 77 percent of Americans, regardless of party affiliation, support increased production of oil and natural gas resources located in the United States.⁶
